

Reflection

In my opinion I thought it was very interesting to see the author Ian Pugh and hear everything about where he was from, what inspired him to write the book wolf Storm, the time hogs, where he went to show the book to the agent and I also liked how he showed us the video about twin paradox which was also really interesting but confusing and a bit weird at the same time because I never thought of it in that way of time going faster and slower. But I really felt sad because of how he told us about the rhino's and how much got killed each year and the reason people killed the rhino's was just for the horns to get money and it was very sad when he told us the story about how one early morning some came and shot the rhino and took the horn. But I would like to say thanks to Ian Pugh for coming today and telling us his story.
