

Ian Pugh WolfStorm Reflection

Having Ian Pugh come to our school was amazing. In my opinion his book sounds so interesting to me and I'm excited to read it. I enjoyed how he put real life stories into his book and I think that intrigued everyone who was there. He also talked about how hard it was to get his book published and that he almost gave up on Wolfstorm. He talked about Rhinos, how they were being killed for their horns and how it has become such a big deal to him.

On Top of that he had a friend (Barry) who knew Christopher Little (Publisher). So Ian sent his manuscript to Barry to send it to Christopher. After that about 2 months later he got a message back from Christopher and asked him to go to London to meet him. After that it was bad news for Ian, Christopher told him that he really needed to work on some things and that put Ian down. Then he did a slow re-write of the book and he and his wife printed it themselves.

Soon Ian is making a sequel to do with the Rhinos and I think everyone will be very interested in it.